TURNOVER TAX ON REAL ESTATE RENTAL INCOME

The Inspector of Taxes reminds all owners, property managers, agents, and operators who make real estate in Sint Maarten available for short- or long-term accommodation to review their tax position and ensure compliance.

Income earned from real estate is generally subject to 5% Turnover Tax (TOT). Unless a statutory exemption applies, TOT must be declared and paid monthly on rental and accommodation proceeds, and the responsible owner, manager, or operator must have the appropriate CRIB registration for TOT. This is separate from the annual Income Tax or Profit Tax due on the net result.

A limited exemption may apply where a property is rented to a private individual residing in Sint Maarten for permanent habitation. Where a rental starts as a short-term arrangement and is repeatedly extended, TOT remains due until the rental has reached one continuous year and the circumstances demonstrate permanent habitation by the same resident. Property owners and managers are urged to review their rental activities and ensure all applicable TOT is properly declared and paid.
